

I'm going to spend
Valentine's Day
with my true love...

Food.

Still Single On Valentines? We've Found The Perfect Event For You!

Bx Andreas Ronco - February 12, 2017

The days leading up to Valentines Day can fill some of us singles with dread. Couples and cupids seem to be everywhere and you cant help but feel like you're missing out on the fun.

Well, this year it will be different, we've found the perfect event to make your heart flutter; the Red Valentines party hosted by 'Singles in Prague,' – a service which helps busy adult singles meet their special someone. They are focused on helping those over 30 find love and romance.

Red is the colour of love and passion, so for the Red Valentines party, everyone can show off their flirty side by wearing an item of clothing in red.

This english speaking event is being held at B24, a chic bar with a relaxed ambience, in Vinohrady. Here you'll be welcomed with a complementary valentines cocktail, mocktail or a beer which you can sip on while a talented singer and pianist serenades you.

I just saved a bunch of money on Valentine's Day by switching to single.

Still a little apprehensive? Don't be! Organisers have arranged a number of activities to put you at ease and help you engage with others at the party. You'll be able to write a note to someone who catches your eye and there will be a few surprises in store for the night. Cupid himself is going to be getting involved in spreading the love.

Since it's Valentines Day, everyone will receive a free gift and be entered into a free raffle, with the top prize being a dinner for two at Summa Cum Laude, which you can use with that special someone you meet at the party.

Tickets available at: www.singlesinprague.cz